Program

The Dual Degree program at the University of Rochester combines the resources of both the College and the Eastman School of Music. It allows students to continue their extensive music training along with a specific academic discipline. These students exemplify diverse, passionate commitments in both areas of study.

Students in this program pursue a Bachelor of Music degree offered by the Eastman School of Music while also pursuing a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree offered by the College. Students must be accepted separately through each Office of Admissions. (Contact information for both offices is listed below.)

Admission Requirements

The most successful candidates to the Dual Degree program have:

- strong unweighted grade-point averages
- completed coursework at the highest available levels (honors, Advanced Placement, IB, etc.)
- excellent SAT I (or ACT) scores
- a clearly articulated interest in a future career in music
- participated in extracurricular activities that include both music and non-music interests

Application Procedures

Applicants to the Dual Degree program must complete the Common Application or the Universal College Application, the University of Rochester's Application Supplement for Freshmen, the Dual Degree Application, and any other required documents as described in the application instructions, along with a complete application to the Eastman School of Music. These must be submitted electronically or postmarked by January 1.

The Admissions committees for both schools will review all parts of the application and select participants based on their audition to the Eastman School of Music and admissibility to the College. Applicants will be notified of their admission status in the spring. Students admitted to both the College and the Eastman School of Music have the option to accept both offers, which would give them Dual Degree status.
